Landing Due In Formosa Philippines

By Associated Press War Editor

A "large force" of land-based B-29 Superfortresses slashed at Formosa today in a flaming two-way attack which Tokyo headquarters said was coordinated with a third day's bombing of the island by carrier planes.

Increasing aerial fury over the fortress underlined a Jap admiral's warning to his people that the American offensive preluded an invasion of the Philippines. He added that landing operations against Formosa and the Ryukyu islands also were possible behind this vast bomb curtain.

Gen. Arnold, commander of the 20th Air Force, reported a "large force" of Superfortresses made today's assault and said details would be announced when received.

A broadcast Japanese communique, heard by the Federal Communications Commission, said 100 Superfortresses made the raid, following two morning attacks by 450 carrier planes.

There was no confirmation of today's carrier plane attack. Adm. Nimitz announced fleet air raids Wednesday and Thursday (U. S. time) on Formosa resulted in this destruction.

Three hundred and seventy-six Japanese planes destroyed, 37 ships sunk, 14 ships probably sunk, 26 ships damaged and 37 small craft sunk or damaged.

This havoc, plus extensive damage to military installations, led to belief an estimated 150,000 Jap troops in the Philippines have been cut off from effective reinforcement through Formosa. Their inter-island communications are highly vulnerable.

At the same time a Japanese official in Manila reported "American guerillas" were harassing communication lines in the Philippines and the puppet government's counter measures had "not been satisfactory."

From Monday through Thursday in attacks on the Ryukyu islands, Formosa and the nearby Pescadores islands and the Philippines, American naval forces have destroyed 520 to 525 airplanes and have sunk or damaged 143 ships and more than 87 small craft. The totals since Aug. 30 are 1497 planes destroyed and 89 damaged, 428 ships sunk or damaged and 247 small craft sunk or damaged.

Not an American surface vessel was damaged. Jap aircraft attacked an American task force off Formosa Wednesday night but were repulsed. A total of 45 American planes were lost over Formosa and eight planes, five pilots and three air crewmen over the Ryukyus.

Tokyo claimed destruction of six American carriers, four other warships and 160 planes.

Southwest Pacific bombers penetrated as far north as Leyte in the central Philippines in neutralization strikes reported today.

Nimitz announced the end of all organized Jap resistance in the southern Palaus, where Americans hold 12 islets. Jap remnants still remain on Peleliu and Angaur.

Beats Mail Home

OMAHA, Oct. 14 (AP)—Sgt. Ray H. McMahon picked up the mail when it was delivered to his home here. He found two Red Cross prisoner of war postal cards he had written to his parents from a prisoner of war camp in Romania.

McMahon, whose Liberator bomber was shot down in a raid on the Ploesti oil fields, recently was released when Romania was liberated.

Yanks Shut Escape Gap At Aachen

By the Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 14—U. S. troops, rooting out Germans with fire and explosives, pressed deeper into medieval Aachen today in a house-to-house battle against strengthening resistance, and guns and planes again thwarted Nazi attempts to reinforce the besieged garrison.

The Aachen escape gap now was "as good as closed," an officer at the front said.

But some German reinforcements possibly had slipped into the burning city, and a front dispatch estimated 2000 Germans were left there, fighting back more desperately now. In five days an American division has taken 1000 prisoners.

Germans fought as bitterly in Holland. Canadians blockading the escape route for the enemy on Zuid beveland and Walcheren islands in the northern Schelde estuary were forced on the defensive.

To the east in Holland, British forces hacked out a gain of more than a mile southeast of Overloon in the sector above Aachen, but progress was slow.

Doughboys were using flamethrowers, grenades and machine guns in their slow advance in Aachen.

Eighty-four German tanks had been knocked out in 48 hours through Friday.

Four miles north of Aachen, tank-reinforced Germans threw in stronger pressure, but several counter-attacks were dispersed by Allied planes and artillery.

Southeast of Aachen, the Allied communique reported progress near Germeter, 12 miles from Aachen and one mile southwest of Hurtgen Town, to regain ground lost earlier to a strong enemy counter-assault.

Americans in France gained ground in the Moselotte river bend southeast of Epinal despite heavy resistance, and struck over rugged terrain to near Cornimont, 22 miles from Epinal.

A German communique declared American troops opened "a strong attack on a broad front" southeast of Remiremont, northwest of Belfort and the gap to southwestern Germany.

"Fierce fighting is still going on at several break-through points," the bulletin added. There was no word from Allied quarters of a new assault on this Seventh Army sector.

Pressure was maintained from three sides on Le Thillot, 15 miles above Belfort. Elsewhere in the Vosges foothills there was "vigorous patrolling" and artillery fire.

Fall of Riga Frees Reds For East Prussia Drive

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 (AP)—Two powerful Red armies were released today for a thrust southward against East Prussia by fall of Riga, Latvian capital and last city held by the Germans in the Baltic republics.

Capture of the Baltic port was announced by Marshal Stalin. A city of 385,000, it fell to the troops of Gen. Yeremenko's Second Baltic army and those of Gen. Maslennikov's Third Baltic army.

While the Riga battle was in progress, the Germans attempted an amphibious strike from the sea at Palanga, on the Baltic coast in western Lithuania 14 miles above Memel, but the Russian communique said Red Army planes and artillery sank four of 24 barges in which the enemy approached. The communique said hundreds of Germans were killed or drowned.

Reds Reach Belgrade, Join Tito Attack

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—A Berlin broadcast said today that strong motorized Russian columns "reached Belgrade this morning," and Marshal Tito's headquarters said Soviet troops and Yugoslav Partisans were "fighting the enemy in the streets" of the Yugoslav capital.

An earlier communique said Soviet troops had advanced west of Subotica and were clamping an iron ring around Belgrade.

Liberation of the Yugoslav capital appeared imminent.

For several days it had been encircled by Tito's patriots, who reported that the German commander and his staff had fled.

Allies Take Corfu As Garrison Quits

ROME, Oct. 14 (AP)—Allied troops have captured the fertile Greek island of Corfu in the Ionian sea after the German garrison of only 60 men surrendered without firing a shot, it was announced today.

The fall of Corfu, Sarande and Delvino eliminated both the Albanian coastal road and coastal waters as avenues of Nazi escape northward from Greece.

Allied headquarters once again was silent on the continuing operations of British land forces and Partisans on the Greek mainland. The light column which marched across the Peloponnesus from Patrai last was reported at Corinth.

There still was no official confirmation of yesterday's reports that the Germans had evacuated Athens and that the Greek flag was flying from the Acropolis.

The bombardment of the island of Aigina just off Athens in the Gulf of Saronikos on Oct. 12 by the British light cruiser Colombo was announced. The cruiser shelled an enemy battery on the island but there was nothing to indicate whether the Nazis still were manning defenses there.

U. S. Troops Gain Near Bologna

ROME, Oct. 14 (AP)—British and American troops, supported by low-flying fighters and fighter-bombers, hammered out small gains in furious fighting yesterday against a fanatical German defense of the Po valley.

Fifth Army troops seized some new hills in the central sector south of Bologna, while Eighth Army forces to the east pushed the Germans back along the entire battle line, except in the Adriatic coastal sector.

WESTERN FRONT—American forces today are fighting in the streets of Aachen, while northeast of the besieged city other troops were said to have closed the escape route. Arrows indicate Allied and Nazi attacks.

3300 U. S. Planes Blast Germany

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Great fleets of more than 2200 American and British heavy bombers, with more than 1100 fighters as escort, battered at railways and industrial targets in Germany today, delivering the main blows to Cologne and Duisberg, 35 to 40 miles inside the Reich's frontier.

Duisberg was drenched with one of the greatest concentrations of incendiaries on the railways, in daylight.

More than 1000 RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes dropped more than 4500 tons of explosives and incendiaries on the railways, inland port, and industries there.

Another armada of more than 1000 U. S. heavy bombers struck at railways, freight yards and other objectives at Cologne, 20 miles south.

Mail Theft Roundup Smashes Gas Ring

The smashing of a black market gasoline ring that netted $100,000 profit after a mail robbery of C-4 coupons in East Cambridge, according to the government, was announced today following the arraignment of 12 men here and two in Worcester.

They were rounded up early this morning, most of them taken from their beds, after surprise raids by deputy U. S. marshals, postoffice inspectors, the police racket squad and OPA investigators.

In Worcester, federal and city officers had to break down the door of his home to capture George H. Elia, 28, of Penn ave. They subdued him after a 5 a. m. battle.

The defendants were charged with conspiracy to possess and transfer gasoline coupons stolen from the mails, a robbery that occurred July 13, when a mailbag containing thousands of coupons vanished somewhere between OPA offices and the postoffice, East Cambridge.

Designated as ringleaders by Asst. U. S. Atty. Joseph Gottlieb before U. S. Commr. William C. Rogers, were Angelo Piacentini of Hanson st., Somerville and Frank Cattaneo of Oneida st., South End. Their bail was set at $5000 each. They and the others pleaded not guilty.

A number of the defendants are out on bail in other cases involving alleged federal offenses. Those arraigned here, and their bail arrangements, were

Joseph Vaneto, McGreevey way, Roxbury, $1000; Isaac Cohen, Stedman st., Brookline, $2000; Daniel Goldberg, Columbia st., Brookline, $2000; Richard Dakin, Dix st., Dorchester, $2000; Joseph DeAngelis, Dartmouth st., Medford, $1000; and nominal bail defendants.

The latter were Anthony Schiaffe, Springvale ave., Chelsea; Edward A. Kimball, Greenwood ave., Hyde Park; Wilfred C. Dunnville, Fellsway West, Medford; Louis Sylvester, Jr., Poplar st., West End, and Philip Knapp, Poplar st., Roslindale.

In Worcester, where the cases were continued to Nov. 6, Elia and John J. Sweeney, 41, of Hamilton st., also pleaded not guilty. When U. C. Commr. Edwin H. Crandell announced bail would be $2500 in each case, Sweeney pulled a roll from his pocket and counted off the sum on the spot.

It was learned here that at least three other men are sought in connection with the robbery and black market operations. Indication the number may be larger was given when Asst. U. S. Atty. Gottlieb read at the arraignment a statement from U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon. Brandon declared:

"This is an example of uncontrolled traffic in gasoline coupons that has reached into and violated the United States mails. I have ordered the postal authorities, Secret Service, OPA and other available government agencies to leave no stone unturned for the apprehension of every person involved in this crime. This case must not be the start of an era of lawlessness."

Gottlieb told Commr. Rogers that the C-4 gas coupons, each representing five gallons, had been sold by the gang for 20 cents each. Approximately 100,000 coupons had been in the stolen mail sack. From their sale and from deals in gasoline, Gottlieb declared, it was a certainty the gang had netted $100,000.

The mail bag containing the coupons, which were in envelopes addressed to individuals and firms within a 50-mile radius from Boston, vanished somewhere between the Cambridge OPA office and the postoffice in East Cambridge. Postal records indicated the pouch had never arrived at the postoffice.

Canteen Soldier Sought In Tub Slaying of Girl

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14 (INS)—An autopsy finding that Georgette Bauerdorf, 20, heiress-socialite and Hollywood canteen hostess, had been attacked and strangled, today launched authorities on a widespread search for a soldier seen dancing with her Wednesday night at the canteen.

Miss Bauerdorf's body was found late Thursday in a bathtub of bloody water at her sister's West Hollywood apartment, with a large scrap of carefully folded toweling jammed down her throat.

Death of the girl, daughter of George E. Bauerdorf, wealthy oil man, at first was believed from natural causes, but an element of mystery was injected when her automobile was found abandoned and out of gas 10 miles across Los Angeles from the apartment.

Attacked, Slain in Apartment

June Ziegler

Dr. Frank R. Webb, county autopsy surgeon, then reported that Miss Bauerdorf had been attacked and had died from strangulation resulting from the toweling crammed in her throat. There was no evidence, he said, of drowning.

Miss Bauerdorf had been occupying the apartment alone since Aug. 28, when the sister, Mrs. John Dillon, her father and her stepmother left on a trip East.

Entries in a diary and reservations for an airplane ticket to El Paso, Tex., indicated Miss Bauerdorf intended to make a secret plane trip to visit a young man, "Jerry," who was graduating from an Army air school at Ft. Bliss.

Through the diary, Inspector William Penprase said, officers were led to Miss June Ziegler, 20, who also served as a canteen junior hostess and is believed to have been one of the last persons to have seen Miss Bauerdorf alive.

"She told me (Wednesday night) she was nervous," Miss Ziegler recalled, "and asked me if I would spend the night with her . . . I thought she was just nervous about the plane trip, which she had kept secret."

The Bauerdorfs formerly lived in New York, where Miss Bauerdorf attended St. Agatha's school.

24 Aspirin Pills Kill Tiny Girl

Death of a 2¼-year-old child from eating 24 aspirin tablets was revealed today by Dr. Jeremiah Greene, Cambridge medical examiner. The little girl was Juanita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Houlsen of Franklin st., Cambridge. She was rushed to Cambridge City Hospital late Thursday night.

Juanita, the mother said, had reached up on a table, grasped a bottle containing two dozen tablets, and taken them all.

Arraign Farina In Ambulance

While heavily armed State and Boston police surrounded the section, Patrick T. Farina, 31, of Bataan ct., Roxbury, survivor of a gangland attempt to kill him, was arraigned on an armed robbery charge today in a police ambulance parked outside Roxbury court house.

Judge Frankland W. L. Miles, who conducted the unique procedure, found probable cause and ordered Farina held in $50,000 for the grand jury in connection with the $7000 holdup of an S. S. Pierce Co. paymaster Sept. 13.

Farina remained in the ambulance throughout the arraignment. He was taken to Norfolk Prison Colony Hospital after the legal proceedings were completed.

Farina was brought from Weymouth Hospital where he was under treatment for three bullet wounds inflicted, he said, by two ex-convicts on a "ride" last Sunday. He named his alleged assailants and police have conducted a wide search for the pair since.

On the basis of information provided by Farina, police obtained warrants for Michael J. "Spike" Hennessey of Back Bay and Robert L. "Bobby" Wallace of Roxbury, charging them also with the S. S. Pierce robbery.

Suave Stranger And Cash Vanish

A polite and well-dressed stranger, who entered the office of Miss Ruth Abboud, manager of a Little Building restaurant, seeking change for a half-dollar, today was believed to have walked off with $1000 in pay envelopes on her desk.

She reported to police that she was making up the restaurant payroll when the stranger entered her office and asked her to change the coin.

She took him to her cashier in an adjoining room and exchanged the money for him and he apparently left. She chatted for a few minutes with the cashier but when she returned to her own office, the money was missing.

Bricker Lashes Out At Political Rationing

By E. E. EASTERLY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 14 (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker, condemning what he called political implications in rationing, asserted today that the recent release of farm machinery from rationing "undoubtedly was facilitated by the fact the election day is approaching."

WINDSORS IN BALTIMORE—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor appear in a gay mood as they chat with a reporter on the grounds of the William W. Lanahan estate in Baltimore where they are house guests. The Duchess, you remember, is a former Baltimore girl. The dog is Pookie, the Duke's pet. International News Photo

The Republican candidate for vice-president, said the Sept. 6 announcement that 17 processed foods would be removed from rationing was made from the White House, and added:

"Ordinarily an announcement of this sort would be made by the OPA. But this is an election year. Nov. 7 is circled in red on the White House calendar."

The Ohio Governor moved into California after two days of campaigning in Oregon. He will deliver what his staff described as another major address in San Francisco tonight. Appearances at Martinez, Richmond, Berkeley and Oakland also were scheduled.

Opening a six-day campaign for California's prize block of 25 electoral votes, Bricker declared the Republican party had no quarrel with rationing in wartime.

But, he continued, "the Republican party does object to the ineptness, the confusion, the lack of elementary planning and vision with which the New Dealers have administered the rationing program. It particularly condemns the political implications of rationing."

Bricker said that the night before the announcement that farm machinery and equipment other than cornpickers would be released from rationing, a member of the Administration had described reports of the impending development as astounding on the ground that farm machinery was one of the most critical programs.

"That," Bricker added, "indicates the lack of teamwork and the confusion of the New Deal."

Harvard Sifts Clues In Skeleton Mystery

Harvard University medical experts today were endeavoring scientifically to establish identity of the male skeleton found Sunday in the Blue Hills district of Quincy.

Found by Metropolitan District Police in a wooded section just off Chickatawbut rd., the skeleton is of a man five feet eight inches tall, and after their preliminary examination the scientists said he had been dead about four years.

A set of almost perfectly preserved teeth, it was stated today by Medical Examiner George E. Dalton of Quincy, who requested the Harvard experts to make their examination, is the best identification clue.

Besides making impressions and pictures of the teeth for checking, descriptions of a hat and the clothing found near and on the skeleton, all bearing New York labels, were being circulated.

The man had been wearing a blue herringbone suit, a blue striped shirt, brown hat, red tie and brown shoes which had been half-soled.

The possibility the skeleton might be that of Justice Robert Force Crater, of the New York Supreme Court who disappeared in an as yet unsolved mystery on Aug. 6, 1930, was discarded by probers because they said its condition showed death to have been too recent.

Dewey to Attack New Deal Honesty

ALBANY, Oct. 14 (AP)—Gov. Dewey has selected "the urgent need for honesty and competence in our national government" as the topic of a major campaign speech in St. Louis Monday night.

The Republican presidential nominee in other speeches has challenged directly the competency of the present Democrat leadership, asserting also that on Nov. 7 the American people "will see that we restore integrity to the White House so that its spoken word can be trusted once again."

In his recent Charleston, W. Va., speech, he declared the Roosevelt Administration "bungled its way into the conversion for war production." He demanded to know "how in the name of the future of our country can such an administration be entrusted with the vital task of creating peacetime jobs?"

A Governor's office spokesman said it appeared likely Dewey also would discuss support President Roosevelt reportedly was receiving from big city political groups.

The speech, to be broadcast over two national networks (NBC and Blue), will find Dewey in the home town of Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, and in a state which twice has elected to the U. S. Senate Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

F. D. Declines Forum Address

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt had declined an invitation to speak at the concluding session Wednesday night of the New York Herald Tribune forum.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his Republican opponent, will speak on the forum that evening on foreign policy, his topic being, "This Must Be the Last War."

White House Press Secretary Stephen Early referred reporters to Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan in New York when asked why the President turned down the invitation. The President usually has addressed the forum.

"The President," Early said, "declined the invitation by telegram last night. He didn't say why, to my knowledge, and it was a very brief telegram. You can ask Chairman Hannegan why."

R. I. Counts Dead Soldiers' Ballots

Votes of Rhode Island servicemen, who are killed after casting their ballots, will be counted in that state, the State Board of Elections announced today, in contrast to Massachusetts, where such absentee ballots will not be tallied.

"It would be ironic, if not tragic, that members of the armed forces who gave their lives to retain democracy's greatest instrument, the ballot, were denied the right to vote after paying the supreme sacrifice to uphold this right," the board declared in a statement.

In Massachusetts Sec'y of State Frederic W. Cook early this week announced that ballots of servicemen who were killed after voting could not be counted under legal provisions governing absentee ballots.

Hungary Asks Peace, Report

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Ankara radio, without confirmation from other sources, said tonight that a Hungarian delegation had left for Moscow to ask for peace, and said a Bulgarian armistice delegation also was on its way to the Russian capital.

The Moscow radio said the German legation staff already had fled Budapest, Hungarian capital which appeared open to invasion by the Red Army, and that disorders were becoming widespread.

Manville Millions To Aid Students

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—Asbestos Heir Tommy Manville, 50, has made out a will setting aside his entire fortune—possibly exceeding $10,000,000—for the benefit of "worthy and capable young men and women" who desire to study medicine but cannot afford it.

This was revealed exclusively to the New York Journal-American today by Manville and his attorney, Carl Helm. The will is dated Aug. 15, 1944.

Under its terms, preference in the selection of students would be given to men and women who have served in this war, or their offspring; to persons who "believe in our constitutional form of government and American democracy," and to citizens.

New York City Voters Fall Behind '40 Total

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Registration of New York City voters for the Presidential election today fell behind the 1940 total for the first time since polls opened on Monday.

A tabulation of the city's five boroughs showed a total of 2,419,861 registrations. In 1940 for the five-day period the registration was 2,554,929.

Mrs. George Birt of Everett, is shown at Whidden Memorial Hospital today with her daughter, born on Friday the 13th . . . the anniversary of Mrs. Birt's own birth. The happy occasion, shatters any doubts she ever might have had about the 13th bringing anything but good luck.

Grieving Children Victims of Query Don't You Know There's War On?

Even children whose hearts have been wrenched by separation from beloved fathers and older brothers have been victims of the scornful query: "Don't You Know There's A War On?"

Anyone except members of the armed forces is eligible to write his or her own letter to the I-Know-There's-A-War-On Editor of the Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass. A $50 War Bond will be given to the writer of the best letter and $3 will be paid for each one published. Letters must not exceed 100 words in length.

"I had that question barked at me the other day while trying to do some early Christmas shopping with my three children," writes Mrs. J.L.P. of Saugus. "I hesitated and my nine-year-old daughter raised tear-filled eyes and said: 'Mummy, never mind toys. Buy War Stamps and maybe Santa Claus will bring Daddy home for Christmas.' My husband was in France when last we heard—six endless weeks ago. I know by her shamed face there was one clerk who will think twice before asking that question again."

"Yes, I know there's a war on," says little C.W. of Jamestown, R. I. "My uncle, who was only 19, was killed in Italy and my father is a lieutenant in the Coast Guard. I buy War Stamps at school to help the buddies overseas."

"Even though I'm only 12 years old, I know there's a war on," claims P.K. of East Woburn. "When you go to a store and ask for something they haven't got, they utter that sarcastic remark. Yes, I know there is a war for someone very dear to me is somewhere in the Southwest Pacific fighting for these same people."

"The only boy in a family of five, I was given an honorable discharge from the Navy and was asked this question when I tried to buy a package of gum," writes T.M. of Worcester. "My two best friends were killed in action only a short time after their entrance into the service. I'm still working for Victory and I know there's a war on."

"I know because I have a brother overseas, because the crowd on the corner has vanished and because at graduation, half my chums were in uniform," says F.J.H. of Cambridge. "I know because my niece has never seen her Dad and my sister soon will become a mother without the comfort of knowing her husband is nearby. There are so many things to remind me there is a war on."

Truman as President F. D. Plan, Says Pew

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14 (AP)—Joseph N. Pew, Jr., multi-millionaire Pennsylvania oil executive making what was termed the first political speech of his career last night at a Republican rally, said President Roosevelt "is not campaigning for himself, but for Sen. Harry Truman, whom he hopes to make the next President of the United States." Pew added, however, "we will never stand for this."

Predicting Pennsylvania would go for Dewey, Pew said "we are going to see the greatest Republican sweep in history from one end of America to the other."

Shaw Societies Irk G. Bernard

DUBLIN, Oct. 14 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw, who doesn't like Shaw societies, begged Dublin's new-formed Shaw group last night to "leave me alone."

In a message published today, he said, "may Heaven defend me from Shaw societies. I have to be civil to them. I have more presents and future work on hand than I have time for and the societies are concerned only with my old work that is, for me, past and done with.

"My one prayer to them is to do what you like among yourselves, hold your meetings, read your papers, discuss my views or what you imagine to be my views, accept my blessings but for God's sake leave me alone."

Boy Fatally Shot Giving Pal Gun

NORTH SMITHFIELD, R. I., Oct. 14—The mystery of the fatal shooting of Thomas Morin, 14, of Blackstone, Mass., struck by a .22 caliber rifle bullet while hunting frogs with four companions, was solved today.

Police Chief William J. Allaire said Morin was the victim of an accidental shot from his own rifle in the hands of one of the other boys.

Morin's old and buttless gun went off while he was handing it to a companion, Maurice Renaud, 17, of Blackstone, the chief said. Renaud was so frightened, according to Allaire, that he and the other boys told police the shot had come from nearby woods.

Babe in Woods Happy After Night's Sleep

HUDSON, Oct. 14 Apparently none the worse for being lost for 20 hours in the woods, Richard C. Rollins, 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rollins of River st., awakened smiling this morning after a night's sleep.

The child, scratched by brambles and chilled, but otherwise unharmed, was found by a soldier in the searching party less than a quarter mile from home.

Stars Wrathy At G I Charges

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—A number of film and radio stars brought up on public adulation were on their high horses today and sputtering explosively, for the GI Joe of the China-Burma-India fronts had pegged them as namby-pambies who toured for publicity instead of patriotism.

These entertainers, charged the Joes' newspaper C-B-I Roundup, found the going too tough there, and so ran out on the soldiers after "hammy performances."

Most indignant of the unsoftly indicted was Ann Sheridan, who was named with Joel McCrea, Al Jolson, Joe E. Brown and Paulette Goddard.

The "Oomph Girl" took a deep breath and declared: "I'll fight boy-fashion, no holds barred, with anybody who says I dogged it out there!" She got off a letter to the Roundup's editor and demanded, "How long has it been since you left that swivel chair to ride the hump?"

Comedian Joe E. Brown said: "The editorial was probably written by someone enjoying the comforts of city life in New Delhi, India, where the paper is published.

"I love those kids too much to criticize them," said the 53-year-old Brown. "I thought I'd covered all the places I could go, and one of the officers told me there weren't 200 men in the whole theater I had missed."

Six-foot Joel McCrea was blasted by the GI Joe paper with the charge: "He got as far as Cairo and heard the C-B-I was tough. He never did get any farther."

Today at Jackson, Miss., McCrea asserted he had never been invited to that front. "But it's not too hot, or stuffy, or tough, for me to go there," he added.

Maj. John E. Nixon, special service officer with the China-Burma-India soldiers wrote the Chicago Tribune:

"We have one hell of a time with the Hollywood pets, to put it mildly, and we are very sick of their returning home and getting very favorable publicity nation-wide for the things they didn't do and for a job only partly done."

Miss Sheridan, in New York, clamored: "When I got back from the road I said I didn't want to go to that area again. It is too tough. And I'll say it again. Our outfit traveled 60,000 miles in less than 60 days. If Roundup editors think our jokes were 'hammy,' as they put it, let them complain to Army censors."

Miss Sheridan did not deny she had shortened her scheduled tour. She said bitterly "We ate C and K rations for the most part and then, when it was little girls' room time we had to go down to the men's toilet and wait until it cleared."

Hollywood was plainly upset.

Denies Quitting on GI's

Joe E. Brown — Paulette Goddard

The literary ghosts who usually fashion diplomatic statements for stars were busily scrivening today, hoping to pour a little oil on the troubled waters before their beautifully profiled employers made too free with their own impetuous rebuttals.

Harsh to the ears of the industry in general was the Roundup's accusations: "These selfish patriots discover in a couple of weeks that the C-B-I is hot, wet and full of mosquitos, and they suddenly develop ailments and excuse wives. It all sums to an overpowering desire to go home."

The Great Garbo, whose long ago "Ay tank Ay want to go home" moved other stars to mimic her at parties, was reported to be laughing up the sleeves of her very best gowns.

Miss Goddard said: "I stuck with my job until they said I was groggy from air fatigue and ordered me to bed. I did my very best, and if it wasn't good enough for the man who wrote the story, then I'm sorry."

Jolson declared "no star I've known has played camp shows abroad for publicity," as the Roundup alleged. He never has been booked for the C-B-I, he said, but would go there "whenever they want me."

U.S. Flier Advises Prison Cooks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—An American flier detained in a German prison camp suggests that prisoner-cooks stirring up holiday cakes be required to whistle while they work.

That way, he explained, they can prove they aren't eating the raisins.

The suggestion, as well as a recipe for compounding fruit cake from various prison odds and ends such as oatmeal and gingersnaps, is incorporated in a copy of Gefangenen Gazette (prisoner's gazette) printed in German Stalag Luft III and reproduced by the American Red Cross in this country as a service to relatives of war prisoners.

Food ranks high in the prisoners' interest, to judge from the numerous references to eating.

The same contributor who sent in the fruit cake recipe informed the readers that a powerful brew of coffee can be used as a flavoring for cakes and declared that while the orange powder they received wasn't much good for making orange drinks, it worked wonders when sprinkled dry on mashed turnips.

The Gazette warned that the prisoners' potato ration soon was to be cut by 100 grams, and that the Germans were going to quit issuing macaroni and sauerkraut as staples.

"To cheer everybody up, however," added the food editor, "there will be an increase of 120 grams of kohlrabi."

The men have been receiving Red Cross food parcels to supplement their prison fare. Born swappers, they have developed an organization called Foodarco which arranges intra-camp exchanges of tea and English cigarettes for coffee, chocolate and cocoa.

Clare Luce Assails FD As Failure in Statecraft

By TOM WILHELM
Special to Boston Evening American

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—Assailing as "particularly preposterous" the "main argument" advanced in favor of the fourth term, Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R) of Connecticut, charged that President Roosevelt, "far from being a great statesman is, in the field of statecraft, not only untrustworthy but also incompetent."

The petite Congresswoman was cheered with wild enthusiasm as she presented to an overflow crowd at Orchestra Hall a detailed indictment of the President's conduct of the nation's foreign policy.

She quoted the President as saying, in 1937, that "to keep the peace is the fundamental policy of the United States." And she asked:

"Did Mr. Roosevelt prevent war?

"In other words, did Mr. Roosevelt's fundamental policy succeed or fail?"

She was greeted with a howl of applause.

But Mrs. Luce indicated that Mr. Roosevelt never really intended this policy to succeed, for she charged:

"He is the only American President who ever lied us into a war because he did not have the political courage to lead us into it.

"Why did he never tell us that if Japan conquered China and Germany overwhelmed Great Britain they would then completely dominate our oceans and that this one fact alone made this war our war?"

Declaring that such a statement from the President would have amounted to a confession that his "seven year policy of isolation and appeasement had been a failure which had contributed to bring the war about," Mrs. Luce said.

"He did not tell us the truth because he wanted a third term. And who would vote for three terms for a statesman who, by asking for war, however necessary, in asking admitted his own gigantic failure to prevent it?"

"The day after Mr. Roosevelt came into office in 1933," she continued, "Hitler became dictator of all Germany, and 23 days later Japan left the League of Nations, thus notifying the world of her intentions on China, and her further intention to build as many battleships as she pleased."

Turning to a warning to the President in 1933 by Gen. Mac Arthur, then chief of staff, that the Army's strength was "below the danger line," Mrs. Luce asserted:

"Thereafter, Mr. Roosevelt had nine years in which to arm before war came. Nevertheless, when the war broke out, in Gen. Marshall's words, 'We were only 25 per cent ready.'

"During the first five years of Mr. Roosevelt's administration, the Navy did not increase by a single ton in ships on hand, although the 1934 Vinson act authorized the building—at the President's discretion—to treaty strength. Yet our Navy did not reach that strength set for it by Republicans in treaty limitations, until 1940. And 1940 was the year in which Mr. Roosevelt's reply to Gov. Dewey's questions about the need for a two-ocean Navy was: 'Such a concept is just plain dumb'.

"Arms for the nation were the President's for the asking," she said. "He did not ask. Preparedness for war is the ultimate test of statesmanship. The President failed to pass that test."

Mrs. Luce declared that only a nation can win a war but a President can only keep the peace.

"The fact is stated in terms of the commander-in-chief. The New Dealers' extraordinary argument is that Mr. Roosevelt should be forgiven for not preventing the war because he is winning the war he could not prevent. But the commander-in-chief-who-wins-the-war-alone issue is a false one. A President can keep a peace, but only a nation can win a war. The people of this nation, with all their genius, all their strength, all their industrial and military know-how are winning this war.

"The second reason advanced by the New Dealers for re-electing Mr. Roosevelt in spite of his admitted failure as a statesman before 1939 is that Mr. Roosevelt has, by now, learned so much about the war he could not prevent, that he is the very man to make a peace he could not keep.

"Shall we trust the making of a new peace to the tired and shaking hands of a man who could not keep the one he inherited when he was young and strong?

"I do not see how, in all justice to our nation, we dare do so. But one thing I know: although a majority of the American people may forgive him, history never will, in the end.

"For he is the only American President who ever lied us into a war because he did not have the political courage to lead us into it. Thus, in the end, the shame of Pearl Harbor was Mr. Roosevelt's shame."

Two Marines Kill 300 Japs

Two Bay State Marines killed an estimated 250 to 300 Japs during the first five days of fighting on Peleliu, a Marine Corps Combat correspondent reported today.

Cpls. Andrew H. Bubanas of Groton st., Lowell, and Robert K. Melville of Princeton st., Medford were assigned the task of dynamiting 16 coral caves in which Japs hid by day, coming out at night to lay mines, set booby traps and infiltrate American positions.

"Sometimes it was just a matter of tossing grenades or charges of dynamite in the mouths of caves, but other times we ran into various kinds of trouble," Cpl Bubanas said.

"I will never forget blowing up one cave, which must have had an extra thin roof," Cpl. Melville recounted. "The top came off and about eight Japs sailed through the air. Two of them landed on their heads in the mud and remained in an upside down position."

Skit on 'My Day' Disrupts N. Y. Club

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—A Twentieth Century Club skit lampooning Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has resulted in the resignation of Mrs. Norman E. Mack, former Democratic national committeewoman, from the club.

The skit, entitled "My Day," was "the worst exhibition of bad taste I have seen in my entire life," Mrs. Mack said. "Regardless of political affiliations, such a cruel, mean attack on the wife of the leader of our nation is unbelievable. Mrs. Roosevelt has been my friend for 35 years."

Mrs. Edward Sharpe, president of the club, where Mrs. Roosevelt is scheduled to speak next Thursday, said the skit was "very pleasant and not unfriendly satire. If Mrs. Roosevelt had been here, I am sure she would have enjoyed it as much as our members did."

Tobin Names Union Battlers at Statler

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Sen. Green (D.) of Rhode Island, said today that members of the AFL Teamsters' Union involved in the so-called "Battle of the Statler" following President Roosevelt's opening campaign speech at that hotel Sept. 23 had been identified "to some extent."

None, he said, "was a personal friend of the President."

One of two Navy officers who aid they took part in the fracas, Lt. (j. g.) Randolph Dickins, Jr., old newsmen after the incident hat he had been told by bystanders that he had struck "a personal friend of the President," nd could expect a reprimand.

paign expenditures committee as been looking into the matter, said the teamsters involved were identified in statements which Robert T. Murphy, committee counsel, obtained in interviews with Dan Tobin, president, and other officers of the union in New York.

Green, however, declined to name names, pending a meeting of the committee next Wednesday.

Green said that Tobin had reiterated that he knew nothing about the fight until the following day.

Both the Navy officers, Murphy stated, will be asked to make affidavits prior to the Senate committee's Oct. 18 meeting. The two asserted previously that a fight developed at the hotel when members of the nion, leaving the dinner at which the President spoke, asked them about their voting intentions.

Boys Mustn't Be Boys, Says Landlord in Housing Feud

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—Because small boys persist in being small boys—walking down other people's lawns, stepping on the ivy and running in the halls—residents of the hugh Parchester development today are involved in a feud with the management.

The dispute, involving 100 families of the 12,272 in the development, started last summer when the former were told their leases would be terminated Sept. 30.

Almost all of them have boys between 6 and 11. Mrs. Robert Simons said her lease was terminated because her 7-year-old son, Robert, had been caught five times in a series of petty violations.

The dossier on Robert, kept by Frank C. Lowe, resident manager of the development, included: Caught on lawn; threw a snowball; trampled shrubbery; picked a flower in one of the gardens.

His latest offense occurred recently when, according to Lowe, he tried to break off the limb of a tree.

Through action by the OPA in the Bronx, the eviction notices were withdrawn, but the families received a special contract which requires them to vacate their apartments within 30 days if there are any further violations of "obligations of tenancy."

Rubin Defense Nears Close

Unless more surprise witnesses are called, the defense is expected to rest its case Monday when the manslaughter trial of Joe Rubin, Boston night club operator, resumes in Suffolk Superior Court.

The defendant, who spent two hours on the stand denying he intentionally shot Guy Formica, bartender at a nearby cafe, in an argument outside his club June 28, was followed by two surprise witnesses who contradicted testimony offered earlier by the state. Rubin, in sobs, asserted he fired a shot at the ground to scare Formica.

Called to the stand when Rubin concluded his story, Miss Virginia Snyder, 25-year-old blonde [illegible] Warrenton, testified she saw Souza "Speedy" Lagoulis, a roller skater, grab a heavy metal ash tray from the hotel lobby and rush out into the street.

Earlier, Lagoulis, appearing as a police witness, had told the jury he sat on the hotel steps and watched the fight between Rubin and Formica. In the course of the fight, he said, he saw Formica hit and knock out a sailor, Alexander Monielongo.

"I saw Speedy come in," she said. "I was sitting in a chair smoking a cigarette. He got one of the metal ash receivers that sit on the floor and rushed out with it. I followed him to see what he was going to do.

"I saw him hit some sailor with the ash receiver. The sailor was already on the ground. He hit him on the shoulder and the head. Then he came in with the ash receiver again and took it down to the basement.

"I heard no shot during the fight outside."

Under cross examination, she stuck to her story that she had not heard the shot that killed Formica.

The other surprise witness, Arthur Bornstein, assistant manager of the Hotel LaSalle, testified he had witnessed the actual shooting of Formica by Rubin from a window of his hotel room.

The trial will continue Monday.

Friday 13th Joyful For Marine, Family

MR. AND MRS. ALBEN BORGSTROM AND SON, BOYD

TREMONTON, Utah, Oct. 14 (INS)—"This Friday the 13th, I'll never forget," Marine PFC Boyd Borgstrom, 23, declared upon returning to his family farm home near Tremonton as an honorably discharged veteran of 18 months in the Pacific.

Borgstrom's entire family, consisting of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Borgstrom, three sisters and a 15-year-old brother, Elden tearfully agreed that the day may hold evil portent for the superstitious but "It's a grand day for us."

The Borgstroms' joy at greeting Boyd was tempered with sorrow occasioned by a succession of tragic telegrams which in recent weeks have informed the family of the deaths of three sons in service. Clyde, 28, a Marine; Le Roy, 30, an infantryman; and Rolon, 19, a bomber crew member. In addition, Mr. and Mrs. Borgstrom learned recently that Rolon's twin, Rulon, is reported missing in action.

Greeted by a huge turnout at Ogden, where he was welcomed by a group of distinguished citizens, Boyd said only:

"I'm going to pitch in and help complete the harvest and try to make up for the work usually done by my four brothers."

Patou, Carpentier in Limelight As Paris Fashion Shows Continue

By LORELLE HEARST
Special Correspondent, Boston Evening American

PARIS, Oct. 14—The second week of the Paris fashion shows got under way with openings by Jan Patou and Mad Carpentier, who was the leading digner for Vionnet and opened the smartest house in 1940.

There was nothing outstanding, but there were a few trends worth noting.

Patou's favorite is a little short coat called "paletot."

It is neither long nor short, often fur-lined, some coming with high elbow length and some with cuffs of Persian lamb.

Skirts on the whole were narrow and Patou frequently used velvet on wool.

Contrary to most, the shoulders were reasonably large and given a more feminine allure, doing away with the Max Baer silouette.

Silk fringes were very often used.

I noticed a chartreuse velvet draped hat with a full length dinner dress of black crepe and a quite low V-neckline, which is most unusual at home in the United States but it probably will be done there in a couple of years.

It was a very useful and practical collection on the whole and started with a grey tweed daytime suit, double-breasted coat, velvet collar with champagne color silk blouse, completed with the same material lining the cape and hood in the above mentioned paletot, lined with beaver and worn over a grey wool dress.

Over the black woolen dress was a pretty velvet and wool paletot with hand embroidered pockets. The coat was entirely lined with rabbit treated to look like seal.

Wonders have been done with rabbit as most furs are lacking due to Paris being temporarily cut off from the rest of the world.

Sable, chinchillas and other furs were often replaced by rabbit, but preferably inside the coats which also made them warmer.

There was one stunning formal brown chestnut suit with a coat very much like a man's cutaway.

With it was worn a small felt hat with a brown bird of paradise.

The blouse was embroidered in such a way with old beads that it looked like lame from a distance.

Patou's best evening dress was broad-shouldered and made of sapphire blue chiffon, with a very full skirt, and a very low decollete, both in the front and the back shaped like a V. It was well named the victory dress.

Mad Carpentier's collection was a great success.

It still has Vionnet's touch, especially in coats, which were numerous, pretty and comfortable.

Shoulders also were very wide with an often draped effect.

Waists were very tight and contrast sharply with the fullness of the skirt.

Black is always the favorite but I noticed many greys and beige.

There were evening dresses in the same line.

One a beautiful pink satin was unanimously applauded.

It had a low decollete, tight waist, very full skirt and a shawl effect around the shoulders, embroidered with black flowers.

There was a lovely purple wool used for a dinner dress, which had a draped effect around the hips and there was a fullness in the skirt gathered in the front and the back.

This effect is often also seen in the afternoon dress in black taffeta, with wide kimono sleeves draped to the elbow and a low V-decollete.

The coats, are on the whole, perhaps less new in style.

One has a chasuble effect in the front and back and rounded pleats from the shoulders, often used in giving comfort and ease to movements if necessary on bicycle, which still is the most practical transportation for Parisians.

This collection leaves you with the impression of a promising house allying chic and actual necessities.

Dry Era Echo

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (INS)—The Department of Justice today undertook to cure Benny Davis' cure for lumbago.

Davis, 52, was sentenced to 30 days in the federal lockup after protesting that he bathed in three gallons of untaxed alcohol in hopes of ridding himself of lumbago.

Federal agents reported Davis was selling the alcohol.

His potent bath, Davis confided, did not help the lumbago.

Extra Day Means More Buddy Gifts

Another day—another package, please.

That was the windfall given Santa Claus when the Postoffice Department announced that the closing date for mailing gifts to men in the service overseas has been extended until Monday.

It was a windfall given you, too.

This unexpected addition of an extra day gives donors another opportunity to select and pack and mail their gifts so that Christmas will be happier for some lonely fighting man overseas. So please, please mail today—don't put off your mailing until the last minute.

All postoffices, including the central Boston postoffice, are snowed under with overseas Christmas packages, and you can make their task easier if you get your Christmas parcel off into the mails immediately.

All those who have enrolled in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas campaign, sponsored by the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, should be sure to comply with all postoffice regulations.

Parcels must not exceed five pounds in weight, 15 inches in length, or 36 inches in length and girth combined. Gifts must be packed in solid containers: metal wood, fibreboard or strong cardboard. At this late hour it would be well to purchase an official overseas packing box available at most department and chain stores and gift shops.

Don't send perishable foods or gifts easily broken. Don't send intoxicants, inflammables or poisons. Lightweight gifts, such as fountain pens, GI sewing, shaving and toilet kits, games and playing cards, knives and razor blades with points and edges well protected in packing, books, steel mirrors, mechanical pencils with a supply of leads, are timely suggestions.

But whatever you send the important thing is—mail it NOW.

Red Cross Needs 736 Blood Donors Today

Unless the daily requirements of the Army and Navy for whole blood and plasma are met, many wounded American fighting men will die.

The Red Cross Blood Donor Center, 485 Boylston st., needs 736 more donors today. You can make yourp apointment NOW by telephoning KENmore 9060.

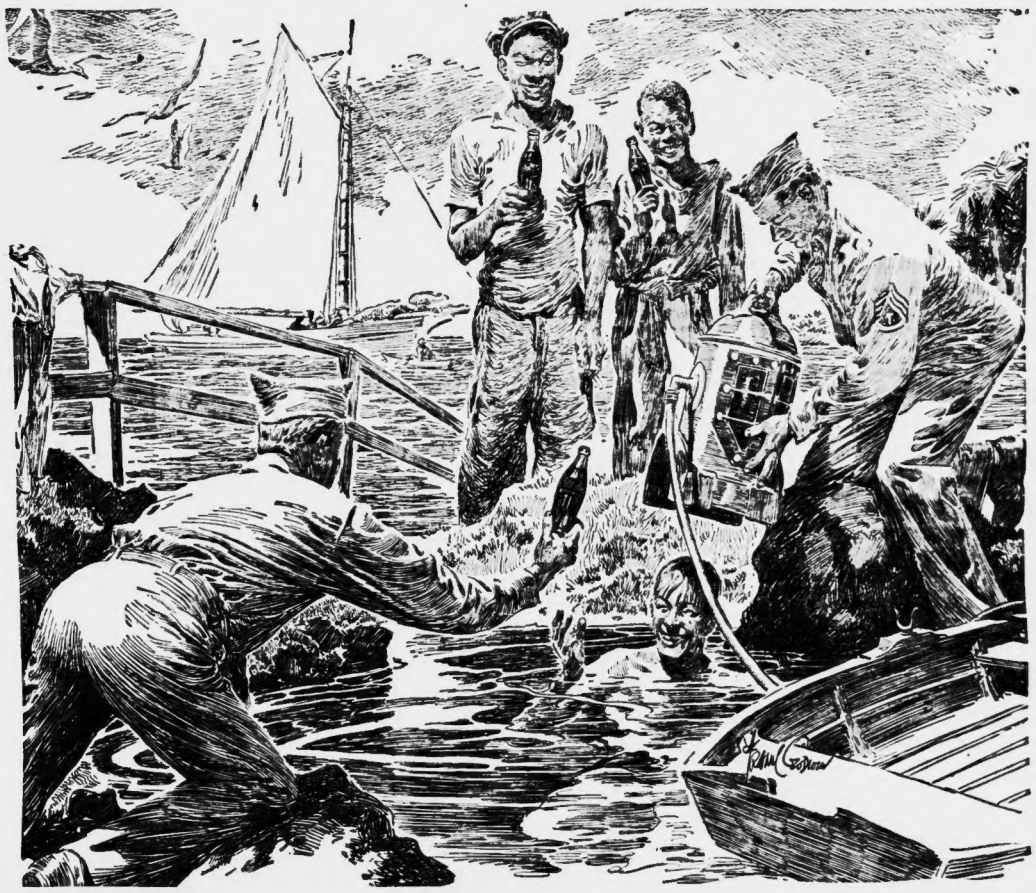
Have a "Coke" = Here's your reward



...or being a good neighbor in Nassau

Underwater exploring in a homemade diving helmet is a novel sport in the West Indies. But the refreshment that's always welcome afterwards is the same as here in the States—ice-cold Coca-Cola. In Nassau as in New York, the pause that refreshes makes a refreshing interlude after strenuous work or play. In many lands around the globe, Coca-Cola has become a high-sign of friendliness, just as it is in your own home.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Friday — Yesterday afternoon being Columbus Day, the President gave a radio speech which was attended by the ambassadors and representatives of the various Latin-American republics. Then they joined us at tea.

It was very pleasant to see familiar faces and to meet the new representatives, and I know that the President enjoyed it as much as I did.

Burgess Johnson wrote to me the other day from Schenectady, N. Y., and sent me a pledge which the Citizens Unity Committee of that city circulated. When they found that their two great war industries were bringing them an influx of workers of various races, creeds and color, they feared that unless an attitude of tolerance and common sense was encouraged, some difficulties might arise.

They therefore tried to have a clear understanding as to what are the "rights" of citizens as distinct from the "privileges," and to see to it that the "rights" were assured to all. The pledge, which I give you in the hope that you will keep it before you and live up to it daily, is as follows:

"MY COUNTRY is engaged in total war to preserve itself and its ideals. We at home are as deeply involved as the men on the fighting front, and should respond to the best of our ability when asked to give our money, our blood, or our time and strength in public service.

"I make this pledge to my nation and my community: That I will promote unity instead of discord, true democracy instead of facism, by refusing to heed any words written or spoken for the purpose of arousing racial or religious hate. I will discourage by my own words and actions all rumors or reports, however lightly expressed, which reflect upon the character of groups of my fellow Americans."

Beauty

Acquire Art of Make-Up

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

SURPRISE . . . but this is NOT a picture of Bette Davis. A little extra lipstick in the right places . . . a sleek hairdo and a sophisticated look have transformed Helen Claire, star of "Violet," into a carbon copy of the noted screen actress . . . which shows how important to the personality you crave . . . is the art of make-up.

IT IS NOT CRICKET nor acceptable to good living to be two-faced . . . but to be four-or-six-or-eight-faced is an art. The woman who achieves such facial versatility certainly is a worrisome thing to any male who suddenly sees the gal of his dream splitting up into multiple personalities. But we assure you . . . you'll hold his interest undivided.

Just a deft turn of the lipstick . . . or any arty manifestation of the eyebrow pencil . . . a change of hairdo . . . and Milady is another and distinct personality. Such is the power of beauty tricks.

As a youngster we facetiously and unknowingly squeaked: "A little bit of powder, a little bit of paint, makes a little girlie look like what she ain't." Tender years didn't afford us the ability to appreciate the significance of changing our personalities with a change of makeup . . . and we didn't know makeup.

But, adult life brings on many and varied moods. Today we seek allegiance to the clinging-vine type . . . tomorrow we choose to be the tailored sophisticate. Today we bask in the reflected freshness of a Susan Hayward . . . tomorrow we crave the heavy, soulful, meditative-tragic look of the screen version of Bette Davis. It is all in the art of make-up.

"MAKE-UP CAN HELP ANY WOMAN"

Helen Claire . . . who has the leading role in the Wilbur Theater opening of "Violet" next Monday . . . is a versatile and clever make-up artist. She knows and appreciates beauty tricks.

"Most women accept their role in life as something thrust upon them," she opined, "instead of creating new, vivid and interesting feminine roles of their own. Make-up can help any woman to create any facial personality she desires."

Lip rouging has many meanings, therefore. A widened mouth . . . that is, carrying the rouge in a pronounced way to the outer corners of the mouth . . . will tend to widen the lower part of the face . . . and shorten it. The same is true of the affectation of squaring the outer corners of the upper lip. An exaggerated arch toward the center of the mouth will both lengthen and narrow the face.

I'll be glad to reveal many other facial beauty tricks if you write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Different Breakfasts -:-

By MARTHA LEE

"GOOD BREAKFAST" time, originally announced as a one-month national nutrition drive, seems scheduled to continue through the winter, when health authorities hope that a good morning meal will be a fixed habit.

Serving a good breakfast means careful planning and timing.

BREAKFAST CEREALS

Prominent on the list of breakfast "musts" are fruit or fruit juice and a whole-grain or restored cereal with milk. Whole-grain cereals are unanimously classified as one of the most outstanding energy-builders. But when we say cereal for breakfast it doesn't necessarily mean "the same old breakfast," for there are many ways of giving it personality.

For instance, a tart apple thinly sliced into your wholewheat cereal during the cooking period gives it new appeal. Often a dash of nutmeg or cinnamon, or a mixture of cinnamon and brown sugar points up the old-time flavor.

WHOLE-WHEAT CEREAL WITH APPLE

3 cups boiling water
1 tsp. salt
1 cup whole-wheat cereal
1 to 1½ cups thinly sliced apple
1-8 tsp. spice (nutmeg or cinnamon)

Have water boiling actively, add salt and gradually stir in cereal. Continue cooking and stirring until cereal thickens, about 5 minutes. Stir in apple and spice, cover and continue cooking over low heat about 20 minutes longer. Stir occasionally. Serve hot with milk and sugar. Makes 4 generous servings.

SAVING TIME

Some homemakers cook enough cereal for three mornings and serve it this way:

First morning — hot with plenty of milk—the extra quantity poured into molds that have been greased or rinsed with cold water.

Second morning—the amount needed is sliced, dipped in dry cereal, fried quickly on both sides, and served with syrup or jam.

Third morning — a real "quickie" with no cooking at all. The cereal molds are set in a pan of hot water, heated through in the oven, turned out on a serving plate, and surrounded with fresh, stewed, or canned fruit.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

1 Cereal may be started in double boiler the night before and reheated quickly in the morning.

2 Substitute raisins, dates or prunes (cooked and halved) for apple. Prunes that have been soaked overnight and pitted may be added without cooking since they can cook 20 minutes or more in the cereal.

3—Add 2 tablespoons of maple syrup to cereal during cooking.

4—To use molded-and-fried cereal as a potato substitute at lunch or dinner, omit apple and add 2 to 4 tablespoons grated cheese during cooking. Coat slices with dry cereal or flour before frying brown on both sides; bacon drippings are excellent for a bronzed finish, or fry in fortified margarine.

READY-TO-SERVE CEREAL

Wholesome, ready-to-serve cereals such as shredded wheat biscuits may be the same shape the year round, but they, too, take on new appeal when served with a constant variety of colorful fruits—berries, sliced peaches, bananas, baked apples or appelsauce, and juicy prunes, stewed to plumpness in syrup flavored with orange or lemon.

Fashion

MOTHER USED IT as a couch cover . . . but today it has attained statuesque elegance . . . and the colorful Indian print has found its way into feminine clothes. This smart suit . . . of pebble finished brown wool . . . has a jacket featuring a plastron front of Indian print in shades of beige and brown . . . complete for detail in the large, soft bag of matching print. Warner star Alexis Smith accents her girlishness with a back-head "beanie" ending up in a large bow.—R. M.

Fuller Bridal

By BETTY ALDEN

"SOMETHING OLD" in Lydia Fuller's bridal costume at her wedding this morning to Dr. George Taylor Bottomley was a diamond cross she inherited from her grandmother Fuller and rose point lace belonging to her mother which trimmed her Molyneux satin gown. Completing her costume was a tulle veil caught to a lace cap with clusters of orange blossoms and a bouquet of spray orchids and stephanotis with a center of large white orchids.

Mrs. George T. Bottomley

Monsignor Jeremiah Buckley officiated and a noon wedding breakfast was held at Runnymede-by-the-Sea, Little Boar's Head, N. H., summer home of the bride's parents, ex-Gov. and Mrs. Alvan Tufts Fuller of Beacon st. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her sister, Mrs. Robert Lloyd Henderson and the groom's brother, S-Sgt. James W. Bottomley were the attendants.

Mrs. Henderson wore three-tone velvet shading from salmon pink to deep burgundy, a braided coronet of the same fabric with tiny velvet wings, and carried exotic flamingo anthurium and croton blossoms to blend with her gown.

Mrs. Fuller chose a gown of aqua crepe with matching feathered hat and beige fringed orchids. Mrs. Bottomley wore white orchids with her ensemble of deep autumn red. Out of town guests included Mrs. Henry Clark Harvey of Cleveland, the former Lansdale Watson of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney L. Mack, Albany; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Norton, Chicago; Countess Aedita de Beaumont, New York, and Capt. and Mrs. A. H. Balsley.

Dr. Bottomley and his bride will live at Postover, Rye Beach, N. H. She was educated in Boston and Rome, attended the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London and was presented at the Court of St. James in 1937. He is the son of Mrs. John T. Bottomley, Beacon st., a graduate of Harvard and Tufts Medical School. He is commissioned a lieutenant (j.g.) USNR, Medical Corps.

ROUND TOWN

There's no shortage of beaux for pretty debutante Baba Mitchell of Newton Center, who had three Harvard USNROTC escorts for dancing at the Copley Plaza Oval Room the other evening. She accented her blonde hair with a black magic dress and white orchids. Hope Noyes, chic in brown and aqua, was with her daily double, Bradley Cameron, USNROTC, and John Shepard and Maud Howe added a glamorous note in their sophisticated new fall costumes.

Court Ponders Noxon Appeal

John F. Noxon, Jr., was returned to Charleston state prison from Pittsfield today as Judge Abraham Pinanski took under advisement the Pittsfield attorney's appeal for a new trial on the charge that he electrocuted his Mongoloid son.

WHEELCHAIRED — Ward Bond, film actor whose leg was injured in a recent auto accident, appears in Los Angeles court in a wheel chair, his foot still in a cast, to testify at a hearing at which David Myerson was fined $25 in connection with the accident.

Noxon was taken secretly from Berkshire County jail by prison officials for the four-hour auto ride. He was accompanied by Warden Francis J. W. Lanigan, Supervising Guard Pirley Vance and Senior Correction Officer Richard Flanagan.

Judge Pinanski's decision will be delayed at least two weeks in view of his order directing attorneys to file briefs within the next 10 days.

Pittsfield sources said it was understood the case will be taken to Supreme Court if Judge Pinanski denied Noxon's petition for a new trial. Former Gov. Joseph B. Ely, chief defense counsel, declined to comment on the report.

Noxon based his appeal on claims that Berkshire County residents were prejudiced against him before the trial. In support of that contention, Ely submitted a social worker's report charging Noxon with thefts and citing his morals.

The report, filed by Mrs. Rhoda Kolcz, social worker for the Northampton State Hospital, bared intimate details of the defendant's life, said he was thoroughly disliked in his home town, and set forth that "his conduct from time to time showed he was essentially lacking in control and good judgment expected from a man of his intelligence."

Among the specific charges in the report was one alleging that Noxon, as a juvenile, stole articles from the Pittsfield Country Club of an aggregate value of $500, for which his family made restitution.

The report also alleged that Noxon, when out of town, would register at hotels and then go out and pick up women and take them to his room for the night. Another allegation in the report was that Noxon had once been involved in a morals case with a young boy, but that no prosecution had followed.

Kweiping Taken In Jap Sweep

CHUNGKING, Oct. 14 (AP)—Kweiping, important town in Southern Kwangsi Province, has fallen to swift driving Japanese forces who killed its defenders to the last man, the Chinese High Command announced tonight.

Bitter street fighting preceded its fall. The Japanese poured reinforcements into the position until they outnumbered the defenders approximately four to one. The Chinese battered back the Japanese in violent counter-attacks and left the field littered wit henemy dead before the end came.

The Japanese are now driving against Liuchow in an attempt to outflank Kweilin, key southeast China defense center, on the south.

35 U-Boat Attack Survivors Landed

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 14 (AP)—Thirty-five merchant seamen, who survived a U-boat attack which sank their freighter and cost the lives of three shipmates have been landed here by a British rescue ship, first victims of such an action to land at Halifax in more than a year.

The freighter was sunk in a four-day fight between a German submarine pack and the largest convoy ever to sail from the United Kingdom.

Polish Rivals Open New Moscow Talks

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 (AP)—Leaders of the rival Polish regimes of London and Lublin were reported reopening negotiations for a combined government today. They have been heard from Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin of the importance attached by the Allies to a united Poland.

Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the London government in exile conferred today for two and a half hours with Churchill, British Foreign Sec. Eden and British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr. He met last night with Stalin and Churchill.

Even before the premier went to the Kremlin, one source expressed confidence that a good blueprint would be drawn there for final settlement of the differences that have kept the London exile government and the Lublin committee at odds for months.

The session with the senior statesmen was attended also by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, U. S. Ambassador Harriman and Tadeusz Romer, foreign minister of the London Polish group.

"Naturally I am most hopeful" of an accord with the Lublin group, Mikolajczyk said.

Lydia Fuller Wed Today in Rye, N. H.

RYE, N. H., Oct. 14 (AP)—Miss Lydia Fuller, daughter of former Governor and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, and Lt. (jg) George T. Bottomley of Boston were married today at the Fuller summer home at Little Boar's Head.

The ceremony was performed by Msgr. Jeremiah S. Buckley, acting administrator of the Catholic diocese of New Hampshire, assisted by the Rev. Edward A. Clark of St. Joseph's Cathedral, Manchester.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Robert L. Henderson of Winchester, Mass., and the best man was the groom's brother, Sgt. James K. Bottomley, USAAF, stationed at Westover Field, Mass. Lt. Bottomley, son of Mrs. John T. Bottomley of Boston, is a medical officer stationed at the Portsmouth Navy Yard.

Gale Still Holds Aloof From N. E.

The tropical hurricane in the Caribbean sea is nothing to alarm New England "until we determine its course," the Boston Weather Bureau announced today.

Latest reports from Miami said the storm remained almost stationary about 120 miles west of Jamaica today and probably would move little during the next 12 hours. The entire northwestern Caribbean area was alerted as a precautionary measure, however.

The hurricane is attended by gales over a moderate area and winds of hurricane force near the center, Miami reported.

ANOTHER LEAGUE

By BENJAMIN DeCASSERES

AFTER SEVEN WEEKS of strenuous brow-knitting behind closed doors the Dumbartonians come forth, with almost comic gravity, bearing in their hands just another League of Nations proposal for future peace.

The essence of this new League is precisely the essence of the old League — to compel peace.

But the old League not only did not "compel peace" but it actually fomented wars by the use "sanctions" and appeasement.

The structure of the League differs in one respect only from the old League: It has a new name—called a "Security Council."

This Security Council, according to the 5000-word essay of the Dumbartonians, will be "primarily responsible for the maintenance of international peace."

But suppose there are persons—as there will be—on this council who do not want international peace except on their own terms?

Russia, for instance, who it is said, has already caused it to be announced in a roundabout way that she will brook no interference from "The United Nations" in regard to her "territorial claims"—a polite phrase for wholesale gobbling of Eastern Europe, if not Western Europe and China.

IN READING over this blueprint for peace of the Dumbartonians we find these things:

1—The creation of an international super-government.

2—No provision for a democratic yes or no on the part of the people of the various countries in this new League in regard to decisions and "treaties" of the international body.

3—Question: What will the Congress of the United States have to say about the warlike acts (for "compulsion of peace" is a warlike act) of this body, which may sit permanently in Moscow, Chungking or the Falkland Islands for all we know?

4—Question: Will this "League" allow Russia to steal and Communize Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania, Finland, one-third (or all) of Germany, Yugoslavia, Italy, Austria and Hungary—as she is doing RIGHT NOW?

Such questions should be answered TODAY. But you will not find in the Dumbarton blueprint any realistic or factual approach to these great problems.

In a statement praising the work of the Dumbarton conferees President Roosevelt said:

"This time we have been determined first to defeat the enemy, to assure that he shall never again be in a position to plunge the world into war, and then to so organize the peace-loving nations that they may through unity of desire, unity of will and unity of strength be in position to assure that no other would-be aggressor or conqueror shall ever get started."

That is a consummation devoutly to be wished, but hadn't we better first find out which are "THE PEACE-LOVING NATIONS"?

THE EMPTINESS of the blueprint objectives of the Dumbartonians will be apparent when one reads over the Kellogg-Peace Pact, signed by the nine most powerful nations in the world at Paris in 1928.

In this pact war "as an instrument of national policy" was outlawed forever. We know what a swindle that was!

Peace is not a matter of pacts and conferences.

It is in the will, in the heart, of the peoples and the nations of the world.

What nations must learn is that it pays to be as decent as the average citizen is.

Love is the life of friendship; Letters are the life of love.
—JAMES HOWELL.

OBSERVED PRIOR: "The pangs of absence are removed, by letters, soft interpreters of love." Claimed Elbert Hubbard: "Great love letters are written only to great women." It was Richard Steele who said: "A woman seldom expresses her mind but in her postscript" . . . Bald men are said to be sensitive about the smoothness of their domes. Doesn't look that way to me. Seems about half the hatless men you see are baldheaded. Maybe these fellows think wearing a hat made them bald. That's a mistake. Baldness is caused by a tight scalp. If the scalp can be loosened there is a good chance that some hair will begin to appear.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—How is your cold? If cured, what methods did you use? My husband has had a cold for seven weeks. A—I knocked my cold over in three days. I cut down on food, kept the bedroom windows closed at night and stopped rushing around the town. I also used some super-duper tablets recommended to me by a friend. These helped, but I think taking it easy and cutting down on food are of major importance in curing a cold.

SOLDIERS: Several cases have been reported from the European battlefields of soldiers having been restored to life after being dead as long as six minutes. A top speed combination of blood transfusion and artificial respiration has made this possible. The marvelous things modern men of medicine are doing in the way of reviving the seemingly dead is very thought-provoking. Probably many a person who is no longer with us would be alive today had he enjoyed the advantages afforded by modern medical knowledge.

SIDELIGHTS: Saw a French counter with a rack under it for packages and women's handbags. That's what I saw today. Truly a step in advance. All lunch counters should have such racks. When a feminine lunch counter client puts her packages on the counter it crowds the customer next to her beyond comfort . . . When women buy clothes, don't they pay attention to what they see in the rear view mirror? All dress shops having the interests of their customers at heart should put up huge signs reading: "Have you seen yourself retreating?" Can you imagine Marlene Dietrich buying a dress without looking at herself from all angles?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—I may be stepping into an old gag but a neighbor lady out in McLean, Va., where I live, swears it happened to her personally.

She vows she called up the Department of Agriculture and asked to speak to some one who could tell her about ailments of chickens. After talking to various parties, such as experts on horse spavins, gooseberry grafting and newt culture, she finally got a man who allowed he was a sick-chicken authority.

"Well," said the lady, "every morning for the last few weeks I have found two or three of my hens lying on their backs with their feet in the air. Can you tell me what is causing this?"

The expert "Hummed!" a few times as if considering a diagnosis. Then he asked the lady to wait. After about 10 minutes he came back on the line.

"Madame," he said authoritatively, "I have consulted our best experts here. They agree that the answer is obvious.

ANOTHER APPLICANT is Mr. K. C. Adams, editor of the United Mine Workers Journal. Mr. Adams forwards proof of an editorial to appear in the Oct. 15 issue of his publication which contains practically no good wishes.

Furthermore, the editorial is notably lacking in respect. It keeps referring to the Hon. Mr. Ickes as "Ick."

I do not hold with this sort of thing. If anybody's going to kick the Ick—I mean Mr. Ickes—he's got to toss with me for first shot.

COMING OUT of the Senate Office Building the other day I ran into His Excellency Galo Plaza, Ambassador from Ecuador, and he said:

"How are you?"

"I am not prepared to answer that question at this time," I replied. "It requires further study and consultation. Also, there is probably much to be said on both sides."

"I speak English pretty well," snapped His Excellency, "but yours of today is beyond me. Would you mind telling a visitor to these shores what the devil you are talking about?"

With an effort I pulled myself together.

"Sorry," I apologized. "I have just been to a press conference of Sen. Theodore Francis Green, of Rhode Island, on the 'Battle of the Statler' and he has got me talking like that.

"It will probably be days, even weeks before I will be able to give a 'yes' or 'no' answer to anything."

His Excellency backed away.

"You are going to talk politics," he rebuked. "I do not discuss American politics. I am a diplomat.

"Furthermore, I do not care how you are. I was just trying to be polite."

"Very diplomatic!" I murmured — and returned to the office to digest the feast of pure reason provided by Senator Green.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—Interesting news is Darryl Zanuck's decision to cast Betty Grable and June Haver as "The Dolly Sisters." If you've seen the Haver girl in "Irish Eyes Are Smiling," you will know she will team nicely with Betty, who, of course, need not worry about competition, for there's only one Grable. She's a big enough person to give her approval to the Haver girl for a role of equal importance to hers.

Betty Grable

This story should be a fascinating one, for Jenny and Rosie, identical twins, were international figures in Europe in lush days when all the smart set went to Deauville and Paris. John Payne and Betty will be reunited, for he plays "Harry Fox," Jenny's first husband.

WHEN I WAS taking an early walk I ran into John Farrow and his youngest son, a cute blonde little fellow with big blue eyes. John and Maureen O'Sullivan, who expect the stork, are moving into a new home they bought and Johnny and young Patrick were on their way there. Later I heard Hal Wallis has borrowed Johnnie from Paramount to direct "Don't Ever Grieve Me," by Robert Smith.

ROSEMARY De CAMP, who is young and pretty but who has had an unusual run of matronly roles, has hit the jackpot at last in two youngish romantic parts. She'll play Ginger Rogers' secretary in "Week-End at the Waldorf"—a woman who falls in love with a man who wants to rob Ginger. Then she gets an even more romantic role in William Cagney's "Blood on the Sun," playing the wife of an American newspaperman in Japan.

YOU CAN'T discount any of these new young actors or actresses being signed at the studios, because yesterday's unknown may be tomorrow's star—it's happened so much this last year. That's why I listened when told Jack Warner had personally signed Martha MacVicar, former 19-year-old model who was under contract to David Selznick and RKO. She's described as a young Bette Davis in looks and talent. If that's true she's lucky. Her introduction to the public will be in the second feminine lead in "The Big Sleep" opposite Humphrey Bogart, and she'll be called Martha Vickers.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The Jack Durants expect a present from heaven—it will be their third child. She was formerly Molly O'Day; Leo Carrillo accompanies Vice-Presidential Nominee Bricker and Mrs. Bricker here from San Francisco; the Andrews Sisters failed to pass their overseas physical tests so they were refused permission to go, much to their disappointment; Lillian Gish is giving herself a birthday party today and will have a few close friends, among them Mary Pickford and the David W. Griffiths.

TIMES SQUARE NOTES: Peppy de Albrew, just up and around after a tussle with pneumonia, is the new host at the Madison Bar . . . You can always judge a comedian's success by the number of other comedians who drop in to catch his act. There's not a single comic within commuting distance who hasn't dropped in to hear Joey Adams at Leon & Eddie's during the past week . . . The Tavern on the Green will inaugurate ice-skating on its erstwhile dance floor during the winter . . . Lina Basquette rejected the lead in the road company of "Ten Little Indians" because she prefers dancing to dramatics . . . Ann Sheridan has selected ruby red dinnerware for Steve Hannagan's newly decorated abode.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, who are overseas entertaining, write that Noel Coward is preparing a modern comedy film in which he will appear with them. The picture to be produced in London . . . Phil Stern, the photographer, was recently honorably discharged from the Army. He came to Hollywood a few weeks ago to work, but discovered that it was practically impossible to find a vacant apartment. However, Phil solved the problem and now has an apartment. He merely sent the following note to all of his friends here. "If I can't find an apartment by October, I'm going to move in with you."

REMARK OF THE WEEK: Bennett Cerf relates that he had met an executive from Metro who told him that the studio had completed the film version of Sally Benson's "Meet Me in St. Louis."

"I asked him," said Cerf, "if it were a faithful adaptation."

"Faithful?" he echoed. "Wait till you hear Judy Garland sing 'Clang, Clang Went the Trolley.'"

VARIETY'S "Hall of Fame" show has returned to the air, and it is still the leader of the programs presenting the best variety show . . . Xavier Cugat is proving to be about the best night club draw in town for Ciro's is packed every night . . . Ed Strong relates this description of a picture show which he received in a letter from his son-in-law who is in the Navy on duty in the South Pacific. Two destroyers were anchored next to each other. Screens were set up on both ships, and the crews could see both screens. On one screen was Maria Montez in "Gypsy Wildcat" and on the other was Maria Montez in "Cobra Woman." When Montez was not in a scene on one screen the sailors would look for her on the other, because she wasn't wearing much clothing in either. When the pictures were over, the sailors didn't know what either story was about, but they had seen a lot of the Montez epidermis for a night, and they were satisfied.

THE CIGARETTE AND CIGAR shortage is becoming acute . . . The shortage of "king-sized" cigarettes is particularly evident . . . Dealers in butter seem interested in selling their scarce commodity by the pound-lot, according to housewives who are vexed at surrendering so many points when their butter needs are for only a quarter or a half-pound . . . Some Dartmouth money—not much—was showing in the nightspots on the eve of the Dartmouth-Notre Dame game.

HELEN HAYES' rare art makes the hocus-pocus of her playwrights in "Harriet" much more convincing than it has the right to be . . . With girls' names featured in legitimate titles ("Harriet," "Violet," "Fanny" and "Rebecca"), a forthcoming motion picture is called "Laura" . . . It is a mystery melodrama and—as the trade calls it—a "sleeper" . . . "Sleeper" means a low budget production from which not too much was expected . . . "Laura," we hear on best authority, is a constant delight and thrilling in the extreme . . . Dana Andrews plays a detective, and beautifully . . . This young actor made a horde of friends in his recent brief personal visit to Boston, as part of the ballyhoo cavalcade attached to "Wilson" . . . For a shrewd characterization of a French provincial shrew, read Louis Bromfield's story "The End of the Road" in the current Cosmopolitan . . .

ELECTION ARGUMENTS in the night clubs are becoming more frequent, more boring and more violent . . . Oh well. Less than a month to go! . . . The chummy Mayfair remains this column's favorite for service and atmosphere, and the Rhumba Casino in the Fox and Hounds is attracting the sort of trade which sets a place apart as a "class spot" . . . Wilson Lewis's excellent small band is drawing the young officers and their girls to the Rhumba Casino, it seems . . . The shows, thus far, have not been too good . . . That a swank night-club borders on being big business may be denoted from the fact that the Latin Quarter must play to $14,000 a week before it breaks even . . . A dozen years ago, $14,000 would have been enough gross intake to give a musical comedy, as well as the theater in which it played, an even break on the week.

RUBY FOO'S DEN is doing an incredible amount of business in view of the fact that Miss Foo has consistently refused to permit her intimate little restaurant to be a bistro where liquor is obtainable . . . The Foo family is being inducted more solidly into the business . . . The other attractive Chinese girl clicking the cash register is Helen, Ruby's daughter-in-law, and the wife of Son Earl . . . (Ruby's daughter, Doris, took over a day-shift cashiering job last week) . . . Jack Chan, the Den's maitre d', reports that the holiday turnover amounted to seven times the restaurant's capacity . . . Steuben's Vienna Room, which doesn't get too much publicity, is one of the biggest winners in Boston, and an excellent standard, both in shows, food and service, is maintained by the able Schneider Freres, bosses of the Vienna Room and the Cave.

CORAL GABLES in Weymouth switched from a "name-band" policy to a floor-show and chorus-girl policy with last night's performance . . . The favorable improvement was immediate . . . Jerry Mann, once manager for Tommy Maren of Shangri-la, is the manager at Coral Gables, and the expensive room will brave the winter season secure in the knowledge that it is the only important oasis of its kind in its territory, which contains nearly 500,000 prospective customers.

Stimson Clears Palestine Path

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (INS)—Secretary of War Stimson said today that in his opinion military considerations no longer prevent opening the doors of Palestine for free entry of Jews.

Stimson said the question of establishing a Jewish homeland in Palestine should be determined upon the political rather than the military basis.

He announced his viewpoint in a letter to Sen. Taft, co-sponsor with Sen. Wagner, of a Senate resolution which would pledge this country to aid the establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

Role in Comedy Ideal for Stephens

Harvey Stephens has been a stage father so many times that the prospect of romping through three acts of Whitfield Cook's "Violet," which Albert Margolies is bringing to the Wilbur on Monday night, with all sizes and ages of youngsters underfoot doesn't faze him a bit. Stephens, who has had many a blessed event during his long stage and screen career, hits the jackpot in "Violet," for, as he says, he plays "a lovable, impractical sort of guy who has a genius for getting into trouble, especially the romantic variety."

Wins National Board Of Review Approval

The National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, Inc., has tabbed "None But the Lonely Heart," the RKO Radio dramatization of Richard Llewellyn's story of East End London life, as a picture especially worth seeing. This is the picture teaming Cary Grant, Ethel Barrymore and Barry Fitzgerald against a sordid cockney background. Clifford Odets, Broadway playwright, directed.

Helen Hayes in 'Harriet' Matinee for Actors' Fund

One of the reasons for the deep gratitude of Actors' Fund officers in connection with the extra matinee of "Harriet" that Helen Hayes will give next Friday afternoon at the Colonial Theater is that it comes when it is most needed.

Always a warm friend of the Actors' Fund, Miss Hayes is well aware of the needs of this organization, especially after a summer of unemployment that leaves the less fortunate actor dependent. The net receipts will go immediately to the Fund's emergency relief treasury.

One Plate Per Car Ruled for Bay State

Bay State motorists will have only one registration plate for their cars in 1945, despite announcement in Washington that material for more plates is now available.

This was announced today by Registrar King. He said Massachusetts plates already have been distributed to branch offices and it is now too late to add a second plate.

City Hospital Vitally Needs JVA Volunteers

Boston City Hospital is looking for Junior Victory Army girls to help out with one of the most important hospital tasks—that of feeding patients.

Several JVA members have already volunteered for this patriotic work, but Miss Mary E Lynch, chief dietitian at the hospital, wants many more.

"This is one of the most vital jobs girls can perform in the Victory Army work," Miss Lynch said, "for without volunteer help from these patriotic girls, the hospital service would be cut down tremendously and I don't know how we'd carry on."

It's a job that calls for smart, alert girls of 16 and 17 years of age.

They come to the hospital at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, stay through until 5:30 or 6, and help out with the evening meal. Of the three meals a day (Miss Lynch has charge of serving 11,000 meals daily), supper is the one on which she needs the most help. And each girl is given her own supper at the hospital.

No uniform is needed. The girls simply wear wash dresses.

The duties are: Filling water pitchers, carrying trays, collecting trays, helping nurses, making surgical dressings getting fruit juices and egg nogs for patients and generally helping out with the feeding of patients, many of whom are unable to feed themselves.

Miss Lynch wants JVA girls to help out in all 30 wards of the hospital. To apply see Miss Lynch or go to the volunteer desk at the hospital entrance.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Sunday's American.

Robinson By Kayo; Crowd in Turmoil

By JACK CONWAY

RAY (SUGAR) ROBINSON punched Izzy Jannazzo apart in two rounds before 7347 persons at the Garden in a bout that ended in confusion and with the crowd in an uproar.

Referee Tommy Rawson stopped the bout after Robinson had scored two smashing knockdowns.

Ray Robinson

Jannazzo took a count of four after being dropped to the canvas the first time by a left hook to the jaw. On the occasion of the second knockdown, Jannazzo, in a dazed condition, got up without taking the benefit of any part of the count.

Before Jannazzo could show whether he was able to continue fighting, Referee Rawson halted the bout and gave the verdict to Robinson. Many of the fans felt the bout should have been permitted to go on until Robinson won by a clean knockout, and they protested the decision violently.

Meanwhile Jannazzo shuffled around the ring as if prepared to resume boxing.

Boxing Commissioners Sam Smith and Dez Wadsworth conferred with Referee Rawson. They ordered that the bout be resumed.

Robinson's seconds removed his gloves when he was given the decision, and Sugar was on his way out of the ring before anyone could tell him he was expected to engage in two fights for one purse.

Robinson has been around the boxing game long enough to know that right or wrong the decision of the referee is final. The Boxing Commission has not any right to overrule a referee's decision, and so it did not have any authority to order Robinson and Jannazzo to box a single second after Sugar was declared the winner.

Referee Rawson went so far as to return to Judges Joe Blumsack and Eddie Curley the slips they had been using to score the bout.

Jannazzo stood in his corner as the officials prepared to have Robinson come back for his second bout of the evening. Izzy should consider himself fortunate that Robinson continued on his way to his dressing room as he would have been handed a sound shellacking.

Referee Acted Hastily

REFEREE RAWSON acted hastily in stopping the bout in view of Jannazzo's ring experience. He should have permitted Robinson to have tossed a few more Sunday punches at Izzy. One more well directed left hook would have ended the bout so decisively that everyone in the Garden would have been satisfied.

One must admire Jannazzo's willingness to fight and his courage, but he does not rate in the same class with Robinson. The latter is a perfect fighting machine. He has speed, skill, ring generalship and a crashing punch. Jannazzo could not have stood up much longer before Robinson's crashing left hook.

Sugar was wild in the delivery of his right. He missed several right hand punches that would have dropped Jannazzo into the press row if they had landed.

While beaten decisively in the abbreviated tussle, Jannazzo proved he was not afraid of Robinson. He didn't back away from the uncrowned welterweight champion. When he went back, it was because he got in the way of Robinson's left hook.

Robinson Flashes Early

IN THE first round, Robinson convinced those persons at the ringside he had too much ring class for Jannazzo. He flashed three or four times, driving hard left and right hand punches to the head and body. Jannazzo stabbed with his left and landed six or seven healthy blows. It was Robinson's round by a comfortable margin.

The second round witnessed Robinson turning on full steam. He forced the issue, and crashed three heavy left hooks to the jaw that shook up Jannazzo to the soles of his feet. Sugar attempted to cross his right to the jaw for the kill, but he was wild with this blow.

Robinson then went back to using left hooks. He got his full power behind one of these hooks and Jannazzo dropped to the canvas in a heap. Izzy was up at the count of four. Robinson swarmed all over Jannazzo, and sent him to the canvas again with another left hook. In a dazed condition, Jannazzo got up without taking the benefit of any part of the count.

Referee Rawson should have given Jannazzo an opportunity to prove whether he could continue boxing, but he hastily stepped in and halted the bout. If the bout had gone on, Robinson would probably have won in a few more punches.

Robinson at 148½ pounds proved he can make the welterweight limit. Jannazzo weighed 153 pounds. Izzy found that courage and ring wisdom are not sufficient when opposed by an uncrowned champion like Robinson.

Public Safety Commr. John Stokes, who is also chairman of the Boxing Commission, was at the ringside with Col. Thomas Sullivan, but he did not take any part in the attempt to have the bout resumed.

The Boxing Commissioners were probably trying to satisfy the wishes of those fans who were protesting the decision, but if such a procedure were to be followed there might be times when a boxer would be asked to engage in a dozen bouts on the same night.

If the Commission does not approve of the decisions of its officials, it should appoint new officials instead of trying to change verdicts that have already been rendered.

The gross receipts were $18,747 while the receipts after taxes amounted to $13,775.

Redskins In

Washington's Redskins, quartered at Hotel Statler, worked out on the Boston College gridiron this morning, later planned to attend the Notre Dame-Dartmouth game (2:30) at Fenway Park. The Redskins face the Yanks tomorrow at Fenway Park, also at 2:30.

Pennsy and W. & M., Undefeated, Meet

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14 (AP)—Undefeated teams of the University of Pennsylvania and William and Mary College will clash in the first football contest between the schools before an estimated 30,000 at Franklin Field today.

Penn's teen-age conquerors of Duke and Dartmouth rule the favorites, but the taller and heavier Southerners will be out to do a giant-killing job. The Virginians have trounced Fort Monroe and Hampden-Sydney.

The W. & M. squad arrived yesterday and immediately went through a brisk workout, after which Coach Rube McCray said it was questionable whether four regulars would see much action. He listed them as Captain Johnny Clowes, center; Tommy Thompson, end; Austin Wright, tackle, and Stanley Madgziak, fullback.

Irish Lead Green at Half

who caught the ball on Dartmouth's 28. Maggioli made it first down on the 18.

Here Dancewicz passed to the ubiquitous Kelly who was chased out of bounds on the 8—a first down.

Angsman carried to the 3, Angsman went to the 1 and Dancewicz went over for the touchdown on a quarterback sneak.

Kelly's try for the point failed.

Score: Notre Dame 6, Dartmouth 0.

Dancewicz kicked off to Fritts, who carried back to the 28. Bennett, on third down, raced to the 37, one yard short of a first down.

Dartmouth chose to kick. Notre Dame was offside on the play and Dartmouth was given a first down. Two bucks and a pass play failed and Bennett punted out of bounds on the Notre Dame 24.

Maggioli picked up four around end, Angsman made three through center and Kelly made it a first down on Notre Dame's 36.

Dancewicz tried twice to pass, but was hurried by tackle Harvey and N. D. was forced to punt. Kelly lofted a long spiral down the field. Bennett took it on the five and ran it back to the 17.

Two line plays gained only a few yards and Bennett went back to kick. Davlin, Notre Dame end, partly blocked it and the Irish took the ball on their own 48. Maggioli swept end for four yards and Kelly broke through for a first down on Dartmouth's 38 as the period ended.

Score: Notre Dame, 6; Dartmouth, 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Dancewicz passed to Kelly on the flank and Kelly raced down to the 27 for a first down. Angsman picked up seven and Kelly made it a first down to the 14.

Maggioli picked up a yard, and thereupon the great Kelly broke through to the 3 for a first down, then promptly went off tackle for Notre Dame's second touchdown. His try for the point failed.

Score—Notre Dame 12, Dartmouth 0.

Kelly kicked off to Hayes, in at quarter for Dartmouth, and Hayes raced back to his own 25.

But Dartmouth could not dent the Irish line of brick, so Laird punted to Nemeth of Notre Dame on the Irish 40. The Irish were now using their second team.

Nemeth raced over the midfield stripe to the 48. Now Terlep, another N. D. spare, scooted around end to the 30 for a first down. Nemeth carried to the 23. Corbisiero got one at center and then Gasparella, future all-America, broke off tackle and raced 22 yards for the third Notre Dame touchdown. Terlap failed to kick the extra point.

Score: Notre Dame 18, Dartmouth 0.

Gasparelli kicked off to Laird. The Green fullback carried back to the 33 where he was tackled so savagely by Berezney he was taken out of the game. The Notre Dame second team was proving far too strong for Dartmouth.

Just when everyone was beginning to feel sorry for Dartmouth, Lewis completed a pass to Kavazanjian who brought the crowd out of their chairs by threading his way to the Notre Dame 37, a gain of 38 yards.

Kavazanjian carried to the 33 on the next play and then, believe it or not, Lewis got off another pass which the same Kavazanjian caught on the Notre Dame 17 for another first down.

This was Dartmouth's big chance, its first chance of the day. McKeever immediately sent his first backfield into the game. Lewis passed and passed and passed.

But there the Irish forwards swarmed all over him and on fourth down he was back on his own 32, a loss of 15 yards. Here Notre Dame took the ball on downs.

It was evident that only a miracle would enable Dartmouth to score for Notre Dame was playing for keeps.

Now the Irish showed Dartmouth how it was done. Angsman carried for a first down to the 44 and Kelly raced beyond midfield to the Dartmouth 45 for a first down. But Notre Dame was penalized on the play and set back to its 34.

Here Dancewicz got off a long down-the-field pass intended for Maggioli. It was incomplete but officials, amid much booing, declared interference and gave the ball to Notre Dame on Dartmouth's 34.

Then Dancewicz passed to Maggioli who lateraled to Kelly who raced to the 14 for a first down. Maggioli made two, Dancewicz got six and Angsman went the rest of the way for the score. Kelly's try for the point was blocked.

Score—Notre Dame 24, Dartmouth 0.

Dancewicz kicked off to Dartmouth, which carried to the 33. Here a long pass was intercepted by Stewart of Notre Dame, who ran it down to the Dartmouth 30. A penalty for holding set N. D. back to the Dartmouth 45.

Peck stopped Dancewicz without gain. Thereupon Dancewicz faded back and passed a long one to Nemeth, who was downed on the Dartmouth 20.

A Dancewicz-Guthrie pass sent the ball to the five. Corbisiero got two, then pushed over for a touchdown. Terlep's try for the point was blocked by Young.

Score: Notre Dame 30, Dartmouth 0.

Dancewicz kicked off to Hayes, who carried back to the 33. A holding penalty set N D back to the Dartmouth 48.

Then came Dartmouth's second chance to cheer. Hayes wheeled back and uncorked a 30-yard pass to the speedy Newman. The fleet sprinter caught the ball on the Irish 40, was off for an apparent score in a whirl of dust.

But the Irish can run, too. And Newman was pulled down from the side 10 yards away from a score as the half ended.

Score—Notre Dame, 30; Dartmouth, 0.

Worcester Poly Tackles Tufts

TUFTS OVAL—A capable Worcester Polytechnic eleven took the field here confident of making up for last year's loss to Tufts.

FIRST PERIOD

The only semblance of a march came in the early minutes when Tufts put together a trio of first downs, carrying from its own 21 to Worcester's 48, but here the attack stalled. Poly, kicking with the wind to its back, kept play in Tufts territory after that.

Score Tufts 0, Worcester Poly 0.

SECOND PERIOD

After tearing off 55 yards on the ground with Keith Irwin paving the way, Tufts opened up with an aerial offensive on the Tufts 22, tossing three incomplete passes to blow its biggest scoring chance.

Score—Tufts, 0, Worcester Poly 0.

THIRD PERIOD

Taking a partially blocked kick on the Poly 48, Tufts marched to the 22 only to stall again. At the close of the stanza, the Jumboes put themselves in a hole when Feldman took a punt on his three and was trapped on the five.

Score — Tufts 0, Worcester Poly 0.

Eli Eleven Favored To Beat Columbia

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 14 (AP)—Upset victors over Cornell last week, Yale was favored today to win its third straight football game by beating Columbia, a team that, like the Eli, has won its first two games. A crowd of 20,000 was expected.

FOOTBALL
vs.
WASH. REDSKINS
FENWAY PARK

Tickets on sale at Boston Yanks Office, Statler Office Bldg.; Fenway Park; Filene's Men's Store. Prices $1.60, $2.40, $3.30, tax incl.

Three Yank Subs May Face Redskins

The addition of three proven grid standouts has boosted the hopes of the Boston Yanks considerably for their all important league clash with the Redskins at Fenway Park tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Despite the fact that the Skins may have the one and only Sammy Baugh in their lineup, the Hub outfit still feels that it will be much more potent tomorrow than at any other time this season.

The newcomers are Frank Turbert, John Martin and Morgan Tiller. Turbert is a triple threat tailback who in the last two practice sessions has shown that he is easily the best passer on the squad. Turbert, as a sophomore, played on the famous Duke team in 1938 which was unscored on during the regular season but then lost to Southern California in the last minute of the Rose Bowl game, 7-3. He was with the Giants last year and the early part of this season, so that he also has experience to go along with his ability.

MARTIN IS SEASONED

This is Martin's fourth year in the league, and the former Oklahoma great, who has been with the Steelers, gives the Yanks a hard-running back, which has been badly needed. The third newcomer, Tiller, is a standout pass-receiving end who looked like a "natural" on the catching end of the pitches from Turbert in practice yesterday.

Coach Herb Kopf will not start any of the three, for they have not as yet worked into the system thoroughly enough, but they have been drilled in special plays and will be used in spots. There is no doubt but that their presence will give the Yanks an added punch. The Yank coach expects the Gloucester boy, Ted Williams, to do some flashing in this game.

As for the Baugh situation—the story, briefly, is that his draft board has given him permission to play week-ends, and yesterday he was trying to complete arrangements to fly here. Redskins officials are awaiting definite word but they are of the opinion that he will be able to make connections.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

BEFORE THE GAME—
WELL, COACH, HOW DO YOUR BURPTON WEASELS STACK UP AGAINST THE AGGIES SATURDAY?
BOYS, WE'RE IN FOR A SHELLACKING. MY TEAM'S A WALKING HOSPITAL. EVERY MAN ON THE SQUAD HAS TONSILITIS. MY STAR TACKLE BUSTED HIS SHOULDER. MY ONLY PUNTER HAS A TWISTED KNEE. IT'S GOING TO BE AWFUL.
BURPTON

AFTER THE GAME, AND SO IT GOES ALL SEASON LONG—Thanx To BOBBY THOMAS BARTLESVILLE, OKLA.
BURPTON 50
AGGIES 0
YEH-WE WON. I STILL DON'T KNOW HOW WE DID IT. OF COURSE, I HAD SOME PRETTY TRICKY PLAYS. BUT NEXT WEEK-OH, NEXT WEEK WHEN WE PLAY PODUNK! WE HAVEN'T GOT A CHANCE! NOT A CHANCE! IT'LL SIMPLY BE SLAUGHTER.

Fenway Sidelights

on the field. The youngsters gave added color to the college classic.

The weather was clear and warm with a brisk breeze blowing across the field at game time.

* * *

St. Leonard's band and the Dartmouth band put on brief shows just before game time. St. Leonard band brought forth a tremendous cheer when it played "Fight, Fight for Notre Dame," the traditional football song of the Irish.

A stream of Notre Dame players in green jersays raced across the field to their bench. Dartmouth was already on the field at the time. There was the toss for the kickoff.

Notre Dame started with a win as Capt. Filley won the toss. By this time almost every seat in the ball upark was filled with the crowd still coming in. New England's greatest football attraction of the year was a complete sellout.

With both teams on the field, the Dartmouth band played "The Star Spangled Banner" while the great crowd stood at attention.

Notre Dame didn't delay in giving the crowd a thrill. On the first play following the run back of the kickoff by Bob Kelly, the latter raced through the Dartmouth team for a gain of 50 yards. The "Big Green" then rallied and held Notre Dame for downs on the five-yard line. Notre Dame was short of the first down on the final play by a fraction of an inch.

* * *

After Dartmouth kicked out of danger Notre Dame went to town. A forward pass from Frank Dancewicz, former Lynn Classical star to Bob Kelly put teh Irish within scoring distance. Notre Dame then resorted to line plays, a quarterback sneak by Dancewicz accounting for the first touchdown of the game. Bob Kelly's kick for goal after touchdown went wide.

Bob Kelly proved his amazing versatility when he punted for more than 60 yards. Kelly is 19-years-of-age, weighs 178 pounds and is 5 feet 9½ inches tall. Bob played for St. Leo's High of Chicago before going to Notre Dame.

Kelly was also a mighty factor in scoring Notre Dame's second touchdown. Bob carried the ball over for a score on a dive through tackle. The touchdown was made in front of the "Notre Dame's subway alumni's" special section in center field. The score was the occasion for a tremendous cheer.

The quarterback sneak, with Joe Westengirchner carrying the ball, gave Notre Dame its third touchdown. George Terlep missed the goal after touchdown.

Just when it looked as if Dartmouth were completely outclassed, the "Big Green" cut loose with a couple of successful forward passes that took the ball to the Notre Dame 17-yard line. Instead of continuing a passing game, Dartmouth attempted two line plays which were stopped. When it did go to the air, it found the Notre Dame defense knocking down the passes.

* * *

A group of boys found choice seats on a billboard high over the center field fence. If they had not restrained their enthusiasm when the Irish scored, they would have dropped to the street, many feet below.

The Lost Weekend

Based on the powerful, best-selling novel of five unforgettable days in a man's life

BY CHARLES JACKSON
ILLUSTRATIONS BY F. R. GRUGER

The whiskey was gone . . . only his hat was there.

Sam was reading; Gloria was beside him.

"Where'd you get the black eye?" Gloria said. "It's a peach."

AS DON came out into the bright sunlight and started toward the street, an ambulance turned in at the gate. Dang-dang-gang-gang-dang. He walked on to a bus stop at the corner, reached into his pocket for one of the nickels, and stepped into a bus.

He went to the far end of the bus and sat down. But he might just as well have stayed up front. The passengers turned to look at him. The driver bent his head to see him in the mirror. Don gazed out the window, trying to show that he had never worn a hat in his life. But he longed for one, and the half-full quart on the table.

He raced up the stairs. But the whisky was gone. On the table was only his hat. The room was cleaned up. Had Wick come back? Had Helen got in? No. Mrs. Foley? It was fiendish to have taken the bottle.

He went into the kitchen to see if it was under the sink, came back and went into the bathroom. He saw how he looked.

His right eyeball was streaked with red. Around it was the discoloration the doctor had spoken of. It pained now. He hurried into the bedroom and got his wristwatch, wound it and set it by the little eight-day clock.

Sam's place was locked but he put his face to the glass and peered in. Sam sat at a table reading a paper and Gloria stood beside him combing her hair. He tapped on the glass with the edge of the watch.

Sam opened a side door in the hallway. "Now listen, Sam. I've got to have a bottle. Take this watch."

"Now Mr. Birnam, that's not the thing to do," Sam said. "I've got a drawer full of watches."

"You've got to give it to me Sam. Take this until I can get to the bank tomorrow. I've been in an accident."

Sam fingered the watch as if too embarrassed to look at Don's eye. He went back to get the whisky.

Gloria was watching. "Nice guy," she said. "Do you go around standing people up?"

"What are you talking about?"

"You know. I waited here until half my God, where'd you get the black-eye! That's a peach. Did your wife give it to you?" What was she talking about?" Sam appeared with the bottle in a bag. Don snatched it, said "Thanks" and ran out. Where had she got the idea he had a wife?

Coming up the last flight of stairs he heard the telephone ringing. He stood there, panting, waiting for it to stop. It stopped and he went in.

Catholic Title May Be in Balance

There's a good possibility that the title in the northern division of the Catholic League will be settled tomorrow afternoon when an undefeated Keith Academy of Lowell invades the Malden Catholic Stadium to meet the perennial titlists of the loop in one of the outstanding games on the Sunday program.

Keith, under Coach Spencer Sullivan, has been romping along its schedule for its grand blow-off next Sunday against city rival, Lowell.

But meanwhile, Coach Sullivan is eyeing the crown of the Catholic League, and a victory over the Malden squad would virtually assure the Keith team of the title. Keith was the last entry in the Catholic circuit to stop Malden that triumph being chalked up in 1941 by a slim 3-0 margin.

Coach Sullivan's crew has trounced St. John's of Worcester (25-0); Mission of Roxbury (32-0); Leominster (13-7) and Woburn (7-0) so far this fall. Keith has been moving through the strength of an aerial attack with Jack Campbell, Tom McCarthy, Jim Sullivan and Jerry Riley sharing the passing assignments.

Coach George Kenneally will be sending his Revere High squad into the Stadium for the second time this season tomorrow when the Beach City boys square off against Immaculate Conception for the city championship . . . Revere has been forced to practice this season on a cinder field without benefit of tackling dummy or charging machine . . . and that's probably partly responsible for the Kenneally outfit losing three straight . . . Revere has been on the wrong end of the scoring in tilts with Peabody, Chelsea and Manchester Central.

Lowell will be in for plenty of trouble — and possibly another meeting — with the invasion of Manchester Central . . . Coach Kenneally reports that Central has power, and he should know after his loss there last Sunday.

Aloraye an Easy Winner at Jamaica

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Showing a liking for the sloppy underfooting, William De Franceso's Aloraye raced to an easy four-length triumph in the West Acres Purse at Jamaica before 15,892 yesterday.

Ridden by Apprentice Willie Gerlock, Aloraye, a $17.10 outsider, led all the way in the mile and one sixteenth route. Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Stymie was second and A. A. Baroni's Autocrat third. Aloraye was timed in 1:45.

Knocko's Confusion Shift Gets Harpoon Grid Test

Two unique new plays will be unveiled tomorrow at Roberts Field, Washington st., Dorchester, at 2:30 p. m., when Geraghty's football team (coached by Knocko McCormack) battles the Dorgans.

Knocko has a new play, developed after strenous practice, "The Confusion Shift," Dorgan's team is going to meet it with its new play, allegedly developed in the jungles of Guadalcanal, Cape Gloucester, etc., — "The Harpoon Forward."

Everybody is wondering what will happen when the harpoon forwards thrown by the Dorgans hit Knocko's Confusion Shift.

Both teams are made up of World War II veterans who are honorably discharged. Knocko expects to throw in some Yankee Division plays for which he was famous on the battlefields of France in World War I—but he is depending on the Confusion Shift.

Knocko's famous horse "Flat Top" is the team mascot.

McMillin Offers His Yearly Moan

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 14 (AP)—Coach Bo McMillin of Indiana University will be able to fall back on his favorite complaint —"My pore li'l boys get hurt too easily"—today as his Hoosiers meet Nebraska in their homecoming engagement.

McMillin's starting combination will be without Capt. John Tavener at center and Harry (Chick) Jagade at fullback, due to injuries suffered two weeks ago against Michigan.

Dancewicz of Notre Dame Goes Over for Touchdown in First Quarter of Game at Fenway Park

DANCEWICZ, KELLY ROMP OVER INDIANS

By HUCK FINNEGAN

FENWAY PARK, Oct. 14—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame came, saw, and at half time were conquering Dartmouth so convincingly that the 41,000 spectators were comparing Ed McKeever's team with the best Rockne or Leahy ever produced. The score at half time was Notre Dame 30, Dartmouth 0, and Dartmouth was being completely outclassed.

The Irish ripped off 13 first downs to Dartmouth's four in the first two periods. Boley Dancewicz of Lynn and Joe Kelly of Chicago were performing in All-America fashion.

FIRST PERIOD

Dartmouth won the toss and choose to kick off. Bob Kelly took the ball on the five and ran it back to the 32. On the first play from scrimmage Kelly electrified the gathering by skirting Dartmouth's right end and racing all the way down the field to Dartmouth's 15, where he was pulled down from behind by Bennett and Bonk.

Maggioli went off tackle to the 13. Angsman carried to the six. Maggioli was topped twice amid vociferous cheering and Dartmouth took the ball on downs on its own five.

Dartmouth tried one play for position, then Bennett punted from behind his goal. The kick went outside on the Notre Dame 30.

Here the Irish pulled themselves together and staged a touchdown march.

Kelly lost 2 and a pass play failed but on third down Dancewicz passed smartly to O'Connor,

All Hail to N. D. Irish Get Big Ovation

By JACK CONWAY

FENWAY PARK, Oct. 14.

The Notre Dame squad, three deep with star players, received a rousing reception when they came on the field for the pre-game practice. Bob Kelly, great back, and Frank Dancewicz, Lynn boy, received the most attention from the fans.

The Irish engaged in ground exercises before doing any practicing.

Dartmouth had put in an earlier appearance, and began practice without any warmup.

The Dartmouth band, taking a position behind home plate, played stirring music as the teams went through their final practice drills. The Notre Dame band did not come to Boston because of transportation restrictions. Members of the Irish band are hopeful of being granted permission to journey to New York for the Army game in November. The clash with the Army is still Natroe Dame's greatest gridiron show.

The entire playing field had been covered with canvas until three-quarters of an hour before game time and was in good condition.

U. S. Planes Rip German Silesia

ROME, Oct. 14 (AP)—U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators returned to German Silesia today, blasting a synthetic oil refinery at Blechhamer, 75 miles southeast of Breslau, and a plant at nearby Ordetal, while other heavy bomber formations hit communications in Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Yugoslavia.

Plane Crash Kills U. S. Torpedo Expert

ABOARD U. S. CARRIER IN PACIFIC, Sept. 21 (delayed) (AP) — Lt. Com. McDonald Thompson, 29, San Pedro, Cal., one of the nation's leading authorities on use of aerial torpedoes, was killed today in an airplane crash.

With him went two of his most experienced torpedo bomber crewmen, Gilbert Walker Lightfoot, 36, Tulsa, Okla., and Joseph Terry Rushing, 24, of Verbena, Ala., both enlisted men in the Navy. Lightfoot twice previously was the sole survivor of torpedo bomber crashes.

Truman Likens Dewey to Harding

WITH TRUMAN ENROUTE TO LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14 (AP)—Sen. Harry S. Truman told a crowd that met his special car at El Paso, Tex., today, "You can't take a chance with another Harding.

"I am perfectly willing to trust the American people who decide who is to finish the job of winning the war and making a peace that will last long enough so that our grandsons will not have to do all over again what our boys are now doing."
